HEAD COACH

BILL COWHER

electd as the National Football League's 1992 Coach of the Year by the Associated Press and The Sporting News, Bill Cowher made an impressive and positive impact in his first season as a head coach. He directed the Steelers to their first AFC Central division crown in eight years with an 11-5 record, the team's best mark since they last won a Super Bowl, in 1979. The Steelers shared the best record in the American Football Conference as one of four teams to win 11 games, and Cowher became one of only 12 coaches in NFL history to win 11 games in his first season.

As the second-youngest head coach in the NFL, Cowher instilled intensity and enthusiasm in a young Steelers team while building a foundation for future success. He saw six of his players go to last year's Pro Bowl, which was the most Steelers representation since the 1979 season.

The 15th head coach in the Steelers' history, Cowher stepped into his role on January 21, 1992. At 34 he was three years younger than the man he replaced, Hall of Famer Chuck Noll, when Noll was named the Steelers' head coach in January of 1969. Cowher immediately began assembling a coaching staff made up of a balance of veteran NFL coaches and experienced coaches from the college ranks. With only two assistants who had ever worked together before, Cowher's staff went to work on the team's goal – winning championships.

At age 36 Cowher is younger than all NFL head coaches except Cincinnati's David Shula. Despite his youth, this is Cowher's 14th year in the league including five seasons as a player and seven as an assistant coach.

A Pittsburgh-area native, Cowher returned to his hometown in 1992 following seven years as an assistant coach under Marty Schottenheimer in Cleveland and Kansas City. In his eight years of coaching Cowher has not been associated with a team that posted a losing record. His appointment as the Steelers' head coach immediately followed a three-year stint as defensive coordinator and linebackers coach for the Chiefs.

In 1989, Cowher's first season as a 32-year-old defensive coordinator, the Kansas City defense led the AFC and ranked second in the NFL in average yards per game. The following year the unit led the league in three defensive categories.

Cowher's move to Kansas City in 1989 followed four years of coaching in Cleveland, where he served on Schottenheimer's staff as the Browns' special teams coach in 1985-86 and secondary coach in 1987-88.

A former linebacker and special teams standout, Cowher enjoyed a five-year NFL playing career with the Browns (1980-82) and the Philadelphia Eagles (1983-84). He signed with Philadelphia in 1979 as an undrafted free agent rookie but was waived in training camp. The following year he signed with Cleveland, earning a roster spot and playing in all 16 games.

Cowher sat out the 1981 season after suffering a knee injury, returning in 1982 as special teams captain and starting at outside linebacker in two games.

Cowher was traded to Philadelphia prior to the start of the 1983 season and was selected the Eagles' most valuable special teams player that year. In 1984 a career-ending knee injury kept him out of all but four games. Cowher returned to Cleveland the following season and embarked upon his coaching career as a member of Schottenheimer's Browns staff. At age 28 he was the league's second-youngest assistant coach.

Cowher grew up in the Crafton area west of Pittsburgh. He is a 1975 graduate of Carlynton High School, where he excelled in football, basketball and track. He was selected honorable mention all-state in football as a senior before moving on to North Carolina State, where he earned four letters and was a three-year starter at linebacker. As a senior in 1978 Cowher was selected the team's captain as well as most valuable player after leading the defense in tackles for the second straight year. He also received the 1978 Cary Brewbaker Award as the school's outstanding defensive lineman as selected by the coaching staff. In 1979 Cowher was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in education.

William Laird Cowher was born in Pittsburgh on May 8, 1957. It was at North Carolina State that Cowher met his wife, Kaye. Also a graduate of North Carolina State, Kaye and her twin sister Faye played professional basketball for the New York Stars of the Women's Professional Basketball League. The Cowhers have three daughters – Meagan Lyn (7), Lauren Marie (5), and Lindsay Morgan (2).

Joe Bolton, Monroeville

"Loving these kids is easy, but providing for their special needs isn't always. Sometimes, it's difficult to work within the system. But there's very little we won't do to help them.

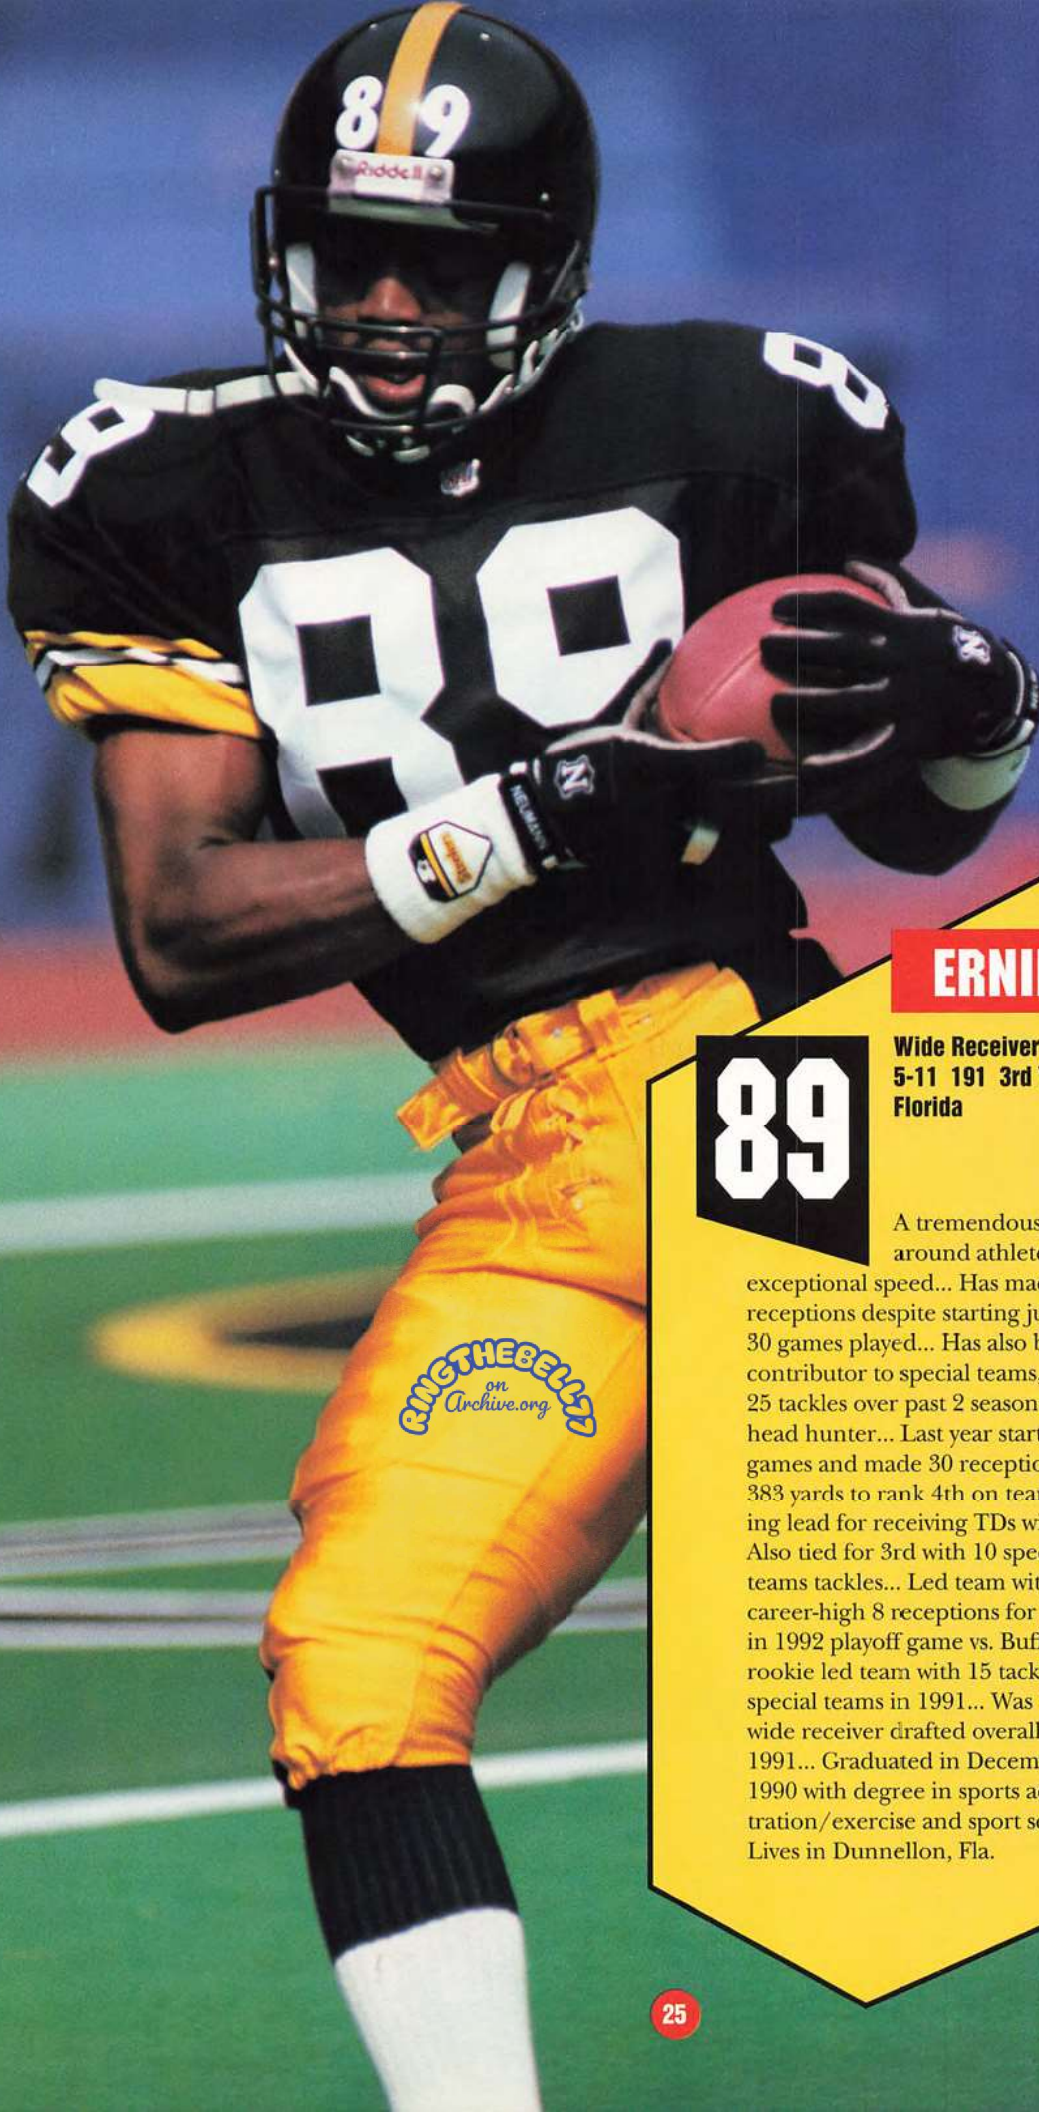

"These kids need a lot of things, but what they need most of all is love. I'm also helping to find other foster parents and teach them how to handle loving kids like these. After 30 years, I guess it just gets in your blood."

Joe Bolton and his family have cared for 30 foster children over the years. What makes this even more remarkable is that every one of these children has had special needs. And in Joe Bolton, they have found someone very special to love and care for them.

At Westinghouse, we encourage volunteers like Joe Bolton who give their time and talent to the community. Every year, thousands of Westinghouse people volunteer themselves to local Pittsburgh organizations. It's what makes living and working here so very special.

This Year, The Road To The Super Bowl Goes Through Ladbroke Racing!

Enter the Monday Morning Photo Finish Contest!

It's a fabulous trip for two to Super Bowl XXVIII in Atlanta! And you could win it in the drawing sponsored by Ladbroke Racing and WTAE Radio!

Just pick up an entry blank at any of Ladbroke Racing's 6 convenient locations. Mail it in and listen to WTAE-1250 AM every Monday morning during the Steelers' regular season. At 6:15 a.m., WTAE sportscaster Jim Colony will replay the first half of a big play from Sunday's game. If he draws your name, he'll call you and you'll need to complete the second half of the play — if you can, you'll win an NFL Starter Jacket, and be eligible to win the Super Bowl trip!

Even if you can't complete the play, you'll receive free dinner for two at Ladbroke at The Meadows, so you're still a winner. So, get yourself to a Ladbroke Racing location for your Monday Morning Photo Finish entry blank. And listen up!
